My name is Kitya Chandler and I'm a fifth grade teacher at Cesar Tarrant Elementary School in Hampton, Virginia. I attended a workshop you presented for our school in August 2006 (The Power of a Teacher "Closing the Achievement Gap"). We were one of the few schools in the state of Virginia that had not received state accreditation since the implementation of state-wide testing. That year 2006-2007 our school was fully accredited. As a teacher I set out to be one of the 100%ers. For the 2007-8 school year my class had a 100% pass rate in math, science, and social studies. This school year (2008-9) my class had a 100% pass rate in all five tested areas math, science, social studies, reading, and writing. Thank you so much for the strategies you taught and letting me know that "Somebody Needs Me!"
